

Abstract of the Disclosure

In the method of buying back goods of the present invention, a buy-back center directs users to enter as input the order numbers of goods that the users have 5 purchased through a specific sales center and accepts applications for buying back used items and participation in a campaign. The buy-back center, after obtaining confirmation by means of the above-described order numbers that the users have purchased goods through the sales 10 center, gives prescribed benefits to the users.